He stands out for his reliability, strong commitment, and the composure he shows in his actions.

After earning his high school diploma from Lerbermatt High School in the summer of 2024, Nima Ehrhardt began studying law at the University of Bern in the fall of 2024. Alongside his studies, Nima is gaining valuable practical experience in government and administrative settings. Since February 2026, Nima has been working as a court reporter in asylum proceedings at the State Secretariat for Migration (SEM), where precise, verbatim work and the highest level of reliability are paramount. Prior to this, he had already successfully demonstrated his organizational skills as a tennis coach for juniors.

With this background, Nima brings a meticulous, determined, and conscientious approach to his work. At Kellerhals Carrard, Nima now applies these skills specifically in the administrative department and reliably supports Dr. Michael Daphinoff's team in the day-to-day operations of the law firm.
