Trainee lawyer on the way to the bar exam.

Rohat Kaya completed his Master's degree (MLaw) at the University of Basel at the end of 2025 and joined Kellerhals Carrard on 1 August 2026, where he advises clients, in particular, in the areas of M&A, capital markets law, start-ups and tax.

Whilst still studying for his Master's degree, he gained experience at a renowned boutique arbitration law firm, before working in the M&A department at Novartis, where he focused on sell-side transactions, particularly carve-outs and divestments.

Since 2019, he has also been the managing director of his family's pizzeria and holds a restaurant licence. This combination of dispute resolution, transactional and entrepreneurial experience shapes his pragmatic, client-focused advisory approach.
